

Case Study

Jean lives in Ankavandra, a small town on the Manambolo River in western Madagascar. Jean has 3 children of his own and is now a proud Grandfather too.

Jean and his wife open their home to orphaned children until they are ready to fly the nest. Jean's family also offer accommodation to people travelling to his town to receive medical treatment provided by charities like HoverAid. This generosity earned him the name Jean 'of God'.

HoverAid built Jean a biosand filter so that he can provide safe drinking water to all those who stay with him.
